Innovation Fund supports new website on menstrual product taxation

The newly launched website periodtax.org is the most comprehensive online resource for advocates and decision-makers working to reduce or remove taxes on menstrual products. With support from the Innovation Fund, WASH United created the website to highlight the need for fairer taxation policies and to share tips for conducting successful advocacy efforts to drop taxes on menstrual products. The site was featured on a recent RHSC-hosted webinar, which addressed the economic impact of menstrual health tax relief, and the results of advocacy campaigns in four countries.

RHSC Executive Committee member speaks for manufacturers

Although most manufacturing has returned to pre-pandemic production levels, some challenges persist, reported Mukul Taparia, Manufacturers' Representative on the RHSC's Executive Committee. Speaking this month at the virtual UNICEF-WHO-UNFPA meeting with manufacturers and suppliers, he highlighted the ongoing challenges of high production and transport costs, delayed regulatory approvals, missing customer forecasts and commitments, and customs issues. Mr. Taparia called for greater collaboration with procurers to mitigate the risk of negative market impacts. You can access the full presentation here and contact Mr. Taparia for more information at mukul.taparia@pregna.com.

VAN poised to launch free basic membership

The Global FPVAN Steering Committee and user representatives held its annual "in-person" meeting virtually at the end of October. Key outcomes include endorsement for the roll-out of free basic VAN membership to the 30+ countries that had previously submitted supply data to the PPMR, as well as a strategy for the membership model to achieve cost-neutrality over the next five years.

Steering Committee members also heard that VAN users can now track more than 4,209 orders and 5,400 shipments across 136 countries. And four countries—Malawi, Nigeria, Ghana and Ethiopia—have begun using the platform for internal decision-making. This development represents a critical first step in the long-term aim of integrating the VAN into health system work at country level. For more information, please contact VAN Director, Julia White.

RHSC Secretariat welcomes two program assistants

Two new senior program assistants—Madison Schoeben and Monique Zegarra—have joined the RHSC Secretariat. Madison will be a familiar face (or at least voice) to many as she has been supporting our work, part time, for the past four months. Monique, a native Spanish speaker, will, among other responsibilities, backstop our ever-expanding agenda in Latin America. Please join us in welcoming the two.

New agreement promises to expand contraceptive choice

The RHSC congratulates member organization Population Council for concluding a new exclusive licensing agreement with Duchesnay to make ANNOVERA, a soft reusable silicone ring that combines a novel progestin, Nestorone®, with a widely used estrogen. The method, which protects against unintended pregnancy for up to a year, can be inserted and removed by a woman herself. This new agreement represents an important step in increasing contraceptive choice for women and girls around the world.

RHSC Director joins 18th International Dialogue

RHSC Director John Skibiak represented the Coalition at the "The 18th International Dialogue on Population and Sustainable Development". The focus of this year's event was "COVID-19 and SRHR", which the organizers—GIZ, BMZ, DSW, Bayer, IPPF, KfW—approached from multiple angles. A popular session of the Dialogue, the "fishbowl discussion", featured John Skibiak and two other panelists: UNFPA's Diene Keita and BMZ's Birgit Pickel. In his remarks, John noted that COVID was forcing countries to face up to new and difficult choices: declines in service delivery, growing interest in self-care, constrained budgets and pervasive supply disruptions. Everyone agreed that strong and resilient health systems were a cornerstone for realizing SRHR—especially in today's world.
